SafeFlow – Wireless monitoring system for fluid tankers

1. General

The SafeFlow system allows real time monitoring and control of all activities associated with the operation of fluid tankers. The system includes electro-locking devices on all tanker's valves and hatches as well as monitoring tracking reader with GPS location indication and long range communication modem. The unique e-locks attached to the valves and hatches on the tanker are long lasting battery operated devices that can be monitored wirelessly from remote control centers. They are designed in specific to withstand sever environmental conditions of fluid tankers on the road.

Fuel management and tracking system controls the path of fluid tanker between the tanker's dispatch area and the downloading station. The system contains E-Locks and Barrier Seals, which are mounted on the handles of the draining valves and the filling hatches, DataReader to control the E-Locks and GPS/GPRS unit, which reports E-Locks status and tanker location to a control center. Visual indication (screens) of E-Locks status is an optional feature and can be placed either on tanker cabin or in the loading or downloading stations.

In addition to the existing AVL solutions for the Tankers themselves, the unique solution allows with relatively very low installation costs to protect all fluid tanker's valves and hatches and to provide full real time control from remote centers.

2. System components

- 2.1 Barrier E-Lock: Protects the valve handle and the filling hatch, senses any movement, open/close or attachment/detachment.
- 2.2 Tracking DataReader: Installed in driver cabin, controls all E-Locks on the truck.
- 2.3 GPS; GPRS or CDMA1x or TDMA unit: Indicates truck location and communicates to a control center.
- 2.4 Center Base station: receives/sends data and commands from truck via the GPRS or any kind of modem.
- 2.5 Microreader and Hand Held Terminal: optional, sets the E-Locks from short range in the station environment.

See Fig. 1 for all system components.
